Conclusions

We see in our Spring 2021 results that some of the highest order skills trend toward lower scores, especially as the more students are assessed; this is certainly somewhat expected but should be discussed—and while a perfect score is closest to one, the various departments will need to decide whether the scores being achieved are expected and how the students might be assisted in learning more or better in those areas.

As far as our assessment practice and experience with the new ILOs, we did have a number of people comment on some overlap between ILOs #1 and #2, as Communication and Inquiry both ask about the selection of sources and data and the synthesis and analysis of those sources and data. Keith King and Kim Radek-Hall will be contacting people who used one or both of those rubrics for a discussion on that overlap in the near future.

In the meantime, please be thinking about what course/s and which ILO/s you will want to assess this semester.
