

Permission to Release Educational Information to Parents

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) (20 U.S.C. § 1232g; 34 CFR Part 99) is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. The law applies to all schools that receive funds under an applicable program of the U.S. Department of Education.

FERPA gives parents certain rights with respect to their children's education records. These rights transfer to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level. Those rights apply only to the records of higher education and not to high school records.

In order to release information to a parent, this form needs to be completed each year that the student attends IVCC.
