CATALOG DESCRIPTION and IAI NUMBER (if applicable):
ENG 1001 introduces students to the complexity of writing, in particular expository, persuasive, and argumentative, as they engage with and reflect upon various writing situations by analyzing audience and purpose and engaging critically and ethically with a variety of texts and ideas. To that end, students will develop information literacy skills to better evaluate source credibility and compose formal academic writing with a focus on effective essays, paragraphs, and sentences as they write for a modern world, which may include forms beyond the traditional academic essay. The course will focus on writing as a process, including strategic choices during pre-writing, organization of ideas, drafting, and substantive revision, with the majority of writing assignments involving the development of effective, logical, and well-supported arguments. IAI Equivalent: C1 900.

ACCREDITATION STATEMENTS AND COURSE NOTES:
Students must earn a C or better in this class for it to count as part of an IVCC transfer degree and/or as a course accepted by an IAI institution.

COURSE TOPICS AND CONTENT REQUIREMENTS:
Study of the essay form:
- Audience and purpose
- Thesis statement and topic sentences
- Rhetorical strategies and methods of development
- Transitions and logical progression of ideas
- Style and voice

Study of essay genres, including but not limited to:
- Expository
- Persuasive
- Argumentative

Study of writing and research as a process of academic discourse:
- Strategies for prewriting and preparation
- Analysis and response to a variety of texts
- Introduction to research and the ethical use, citation, and documentation of sources
- Review of grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, and mechanics (at the instructor’s discretion as determined by student needs)
- Revision and editing strategies, like proofreading, soliciting and generating peer response to essays, self-assessment
- Use of word-processing software for text generation, design, and revision

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS:
1. Lectures and discussions
2. Writing workshops and seminars
3. Group work
4. In-class and out-of-class writing assignments
5. Assigned readings
6. Instructor and peer evaluations of student writing
7. Self-assessment of student writing

EVALUATION OF STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT:
Students must
1. Participate in class discussions, workshops, and seminars.
2. Complete reading, writing, and other assignments given at the instructor’s discretion.
3. Evaluate and revise written work.
4. Attend class in accordance with both college and instructor policies.
5. Author a variety of texts that may emphasize varied genres, purposes, audiences, discourse communities, and cultural contexts.
6. Use sources responsibly and ethically.

In English Composition I, each student must submit a minimum of four formal, revised essay-length writing assignments, with at least one essay of 1250 words or more. Formal essay-length writing assignments for each student must total at least 5000 words, with an emphasis on expository and persuasive writing. In terms of preparation and process, students should approach revisions with as much attention, care, and rigor as given to the earlier drafts.

Grading Scale: The grading scale used in English Composition I is at the discretion of the instructor; however, at least 70% of the final course grade must be determined by the assessment of formal writing.

Evaluation Standards: Evaluation of written work will follow standards as delineated by English faculty regarding purpose, organization, support, and expression, as well as whether requirements of the assignment have been met and plagiarism has been avoided, as in the chart below.
