WWWs of Web Site Evaluation:
Comic Strip

Name:

DIRECTIONS: Think of a comical scenario you could develop about source evaluation. To help you get started, think about possible characters. Characters could include a magazine, journal, Web site, librarian, teacher, student, Internet search engine, etc. Perhaps you want a superhero or some animals in your comic. Maybe model after Calvin and Hobbes. Whatever you choose, use the WWWs in the comic to portray how to tell the difference between a good and a bad source. Illustrate and include speech bubbles in the comic strip. The strip must be a minimum of four frames and have a title.

Use the space provided below to outline the comic, and then draw it on the back of this sheet.

Scenario:

Characters:

Good source characteristics:

Bad source characteristics: